Summary: The Warren U. M. Church is located at 801 East Ridgeville Boulevard, on the north side of the road, in the town of Mt. Airy in southwestern Carroll County. The church is built on a steep hill that slopes off to the north, and the building faces south, toward the road. It is one story, is three bays by three bays, and is roughly square. It has a rubble stone foundation. The walls are covered in aluminum siding and the gable roof has standing-seam metal and a ridge that runs north-south. The south elevation has new flush double doors in the center bay. On either side is a 3/2 double-hung sash with a triangular top. There is a small steeple centered on the ridge at the south end.

The Warren U. M. Church is located at 801 East Ridgeville Boulevard, on the north side of the road, in the town of Mt. Airy in southwestern Carroll County. The church is built on a steep hill that slopes off to the north, and the building faces south, toward the road. It is one story, is three bays by three bays, and is roughly square. It has a rubble stone foundation that is, for the most part, parged. The walls are covered in aluminum siding and the gable roof has standing-seam metal and a ridge that runs north-south.

The south elevation has new flush double doors in the center bay, with a new hood above them. On either side is a 3/2 double-hung sash with a triangular top and a wood sill. The gable end has a diamond oculus. There is a small steeple centered on the ridge at the south end. It has German siding and a steeply pitched hip roof with standing-seam metal. The west elevation has three 3/2 sash on the upper story. The cellar has a new metal six-panel door in the north bay, a 2/2 sash in the center, and two one-light sash in the south bay. The north elevation has two 2/2 sash in the cellar and two 3/2 sash in the upper story. The foundation wall steps down to the east several feet in the center of the wall. The east elevation has three 3/2 in the upper story. The cellar has a four-panel door in the south bay that has sunk panels and ogee panel moulds. The center and north bays each have a 2/2 sash. At the north corner is a short, beaded-edge-and-center vertical board door. There is an interior brick chimney set north of center on the east elevation.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Warren U. M. Church is typical of Carroll County churches at their smallest and most simple. Only the steeple and the triangular-top windows have any pretensions that would suggest that this is a house of worship. Many churches started this way in Carroll County, but were replaced or altered as the congregation grew and was able to raise money. The Warren church has seen few of these changes. Though it is now located within Mt. Airy, this was originally a separate town called Parrsville. The name probably came from nearby Parr's Spring and Parr's Ridge. There was a Methodist Church in Parrsville as early as 1862, at a different location. It appears, as well, in 1877, and Scharf noted that it was an M. E. Church. Its connection, if any, to Warren U. M. Church is unknown.
